Ever wondered what it'd be like to spend a night at the real house used in Bravo's #SummerHouse? A few lucky fans are about to find out.

StayMarquis, the Hamptons-based rental company who manages the property featured on the Bravo show, is offering fans the opportunity to bid to rent the property for one night only to have private watch parties tied to the season finale and reunion episodes.

The company is offering bids for the final four episode's of season 10, which include Tuesday night's finale and all three of the highly anticipated reunion episodes (which will air on May 26, June 2 and June 9).
